

The treasury in the heart of Bavaria

Bamberg is due to its unmistakable flair and its high-quality offer the Eldorado of the German art and antique trades and found between the large antique fairs in Maastricht, London, Vienna, Salzburg, Munich and Cologne, a niche, and thus its place in the international art trade.

A tour leads from the Romanesque cathedral to the baroque heyday and right in the heart of the city lies the unique European antiques district. Nowhere else is there such a density of art and antiques in museum quality.

All galleries are located in lovingly restored, listed, magnificent city palaces. Here you will find a broad spectrum of national art and international handicrafts from seven centuries.

Christian Eduard Franke-

What is offered here corresponds in the most beautiful way with the architecture of the Franconian Siebenhügelstadt, whose testimonies go back far before the Baroque period. And it is always a pleasure for me to present our great and so different art dealers to the astonished guests.

This abundance of Baroque paintings, magnificent top furniture, magnificent chests of drawers, sandstone figures from Franconian castles, bronze sculptures, mirrors, tapestries and silver, fire-gilded clocks and Meissen's ceremonial terrines is particularly impressive at Christian Eduard Franke-Landwers - and every piece is extraordinary:

Courtly Pendule with Allegories
Paris, circa 1770/80

Rococo table clock
Johann Paulus Graf

Walter Senger's sculpture cellar with its large selection of Gothic sculptures takes one's breath away. Here you are welcomed by the saints, some of them enraptured and spiritual, others lifelike and sensual like people of today. But also exquisite furniture, precious paintings and wonderful arts and crafts can be discovered here. Thomas Herzog shows in an impressive way how antiques can be brought into a modern context. Classical modernism is also represented here.

Walter Senger Skulpturenkeller

Matthias Wenzel's specialties are late-Gothic chandelier females, ceiling candlesticks made of antlers and a carved half figure. But there are also Rococo and Biedermeier chests of drawers, silver tea services, faience, mirrors, decorative boxes made of serpentine, paintings and Gothic sculptures.

Matthias Wenzel

I could introduce you to some more art dealers, but I would much rather invite you to come to Bamberg to let yourself be inspired by the beauty, the wealth and the incomparable flair.

Best regards
Fiona von Colberg

Fiona Freifrau Loeffelholz von Colberg
Managing Director Bamberger Kunst- und Antiquitätenwochen
© Fotos Bamberger Antiquitäten
www.bamberger-antiquitaeten.de

Fiona Freifrau
Loeffelholz von Colberg